

Indefinite Pronouns

Indefinite pronouns refer to non-specific people, things, or amounts.

Directions: Use the word bank below to fill in the blank with the indefinite pronoun that fits best. Do not use the same indefinite pronoun more than once.

Everywhere	Little	Something	Several	Nowhere
Either	No one	Everything	Others	Nothing

1. Jake looked _____ for his missing glasses, but it was _____ to be found.
2. _____ arrived at the party, not even her friends, so Evelyn cried herself to sleep.
3. Darrel heard _____ rustling behind the bushes, and it spooked him to his core.
4. Corey tried everything to feel better, but _____ cheered him up.
5. There's _____ left in the milk jug. We need to go shop for more milk.
6. _____ in her bag spilled out when she tripped, including her earplugs, pills, notebook, and charger.
7. _____ stayed after class to ask questions. More than two showed up, but definitely not everyone.
8. Some loved the performance, and _____ complained that it was too long and monotonous.
9. We have two outstanding candidates. _____ is capable of leading the team.