

Answer sheet

Gerunds

A gerund is a verb ending in -ing that functions as a noun. That means a gerund can be the subject, object, or complement in a sentence.

- Ex) Playing chess is fun.
- Explanation: Playing comes from the verb “play”, but the word “playing” serves as the subject of this sentence, and means the act of playing.

Directions: Use the given word as an action verb and a gerund. The first one is done for you.

Answers may vary.

1. Dash

A. (Action verb sentence): She dashes across the meadow.

G. (Gerund sentence): Dashing through the meadow was freeing.

2. Whisper

A.: He whispers secrets to his best friend.

G.: The teacher made it clear that whispering in class is not allowed.

3. Snap

A.: I snap my fingers to the beat.

G.: Snapping photos is fun on trips.

4. Peek

A.: Baron peeked through the curtain to see if his mom had arrived.

G.: Peeking without permission can be considered a crime.

5. Whirl

A.: The vibrant red leaves whirl in the autumn wind.

G.: Whirling around the yard made me nauseous.